There are few days on the calendar so closely associated with grilling out, having friends over, and enjoying a day off from work with friends (not to mention American flag shorts, fireworks, and a refreshing beer). The Fourth of July is the height of summer leisure.

However, not everyone can sit on a patio all day, grilling, and some people don't want to. So, chains and local restaurants across the country offer deals that will make you think twice about doing the math on how many packs of buns you need to match the number of hot dogs because they just don't match up.

If you're looking for options, here's our running list of the best food deals available on the Fourth of July, including offers from Buffalo Wild Wings, Chili's, Boston Market, Grimaldi's, and many others.
